

Please ensure you follow the abstract guidelines.
Abstracts that do not conform to UKCO guidelines will be rejected.

Please ensure that your abstract does not contain spelling, grammatical or scientific errors, as it will be reproduced as submitted. No proofreading or correction will be done.

The use of People-First Language is mandatory for the abstract to be accepted.
Abstracts not using People-First Language will be rejected.

ASO subscribes to the principles of ethics and integrity in science. The work described in the abstract needs to have an appropriate approval under local, ethical and animal experimentation rules. Using another author's work without permission or acknowledgement is plagiarism. Plagiarism in any form is unacceptable at UKCO and will result in rejection and sanction. We encourage proper use of quotes, citations and references where necessary and appropriate, however, template writing, citation stacking, excessive aggregation and patch-writing are considered forms of plagiarism.

Abstracts not adhering to these guidelines will be rejected. If you do not agree with any of these rules, you should not submit an abstract. The final decision about acceptance of an abstract will be taken by the ASO Trustees and UKCO Local Organising Committee.

Title

The abstract title should be single sentence using sentence case and has maximum 200 characters.

Authors

All author names must be listed as they will appear in the publication in the format:

Given Name Family Name

Use appropriate initial caps
Each author should be separated by comma (,)

e.g. Emily Smith, Syed Ali, John Hills

Please identify the presenting author.
Abstracts where the presenting author is not registered for the conference by final online registration date will be withdrawn from the programme and not published.
ORCID ID for the presenting author should be supplied as email addresses will not be published in the final abstracts.

Affiliations

At least one affiliation for each of the listed authors should be included. This is typically the primary employer or institution names (in English, not abbreviated), and location (city, state or province, country).

e.g. University of Obesity, London, UK

Department names, school, lab, division, department or institute etc should be omitted from affiliations to prevent duplication. Affiliations should be numbered sequentially in the order mentioned in the author list and not duplicated. Each affiliation must be assigned to an author using arabic numerals

e.g

Authors: John Smith¹, Jane Doe²

Affiliations: 1University of London 2University of Cardiff

Unstructured abstracts

Abstracts should be written in a single block paragraph.

Your abstract should include the following elements: Intro/Background/Objective, Methods/Design, Results and Conclusions, however no sub-headings should be used.

A Separate paragraph may be used for the purpose of including References (see guidance on this), Clinical Trial Registry number or protocol etc

Otherwise, abstract text should run in a single block paragraph without line breaks.

Abstracts with bulleted or numbered lists, incomplete sentences, incorrect symbols, excessive use of jargon, non-standard formatting and punctuation will be rejected.

Word limit

Word count 350 words.

Trademarks

The inclusion of trade names/brand names is not allowed in the abstract. The mentioning of agents/molecules must follow the scientific standard for publications.

References

References and citations to previously published work should be avoided wherever possible.

Where citing a reference is absolutely necessary, it is acceptable to provide abbreviated references with the DOI or web links to sources.

e.g. <https://doi.org/10.1007/s12178-015-9270-2>

Where the DOI or web links are not available the references should conform to the Journal format for reference lists.

e.g. Romain, P.L. Conflicts of interest in research: looking out for number one means keeping the primary interest front and center. Curr Rev Musculoskelet Med 8, 122–127 (2015).

Conflict of interest

It is the intent of UKCO to provide high quality sessions focused on educational content that is free from commercial influence or bias. Thus, the submitting author of an abstract is requested to declare any potential conflicts of interest for all abstract authors during the submission process. These will be listed at the end of each published abstract.

In general terms, a conflict of interest exists when an individual has competing interests, which might impair its or their ability to make objective, unbiased decisions.

Funding sources

Please declare all sources of funding for the submitted work, including support for salaries, materials or project or programmes.

Publication of Abstracts and Encore Abstracts

Encore abstracts are those which have been presented at a conference previously, and/or published as an abstract/s in the publications of abstracts from other conferences or meetings. Whilst we will accept submission of encore abstracts to UKCO 2024, because of copyright issues if you declare your abstract an encore abstracts as defined above, you will be automatically opted out of being published in the supplement in the International Journal of Obesity. If you declare your abstract to be an encore abstract you will be asked to list all other conferences/meeting that the abstract has been printed or presented as well as the dates.

If your abstract is an encore abstract you MUST declare it.

Failure to declare an abstract previously presented at a conference where abstracts are published in a journal supplement is plagiarism. Plagiarism in any form is unacceptable at UKCO and will result in rejection of your abstract and sanction.

You may also opt out of having the submitted abstracts published in the UKCO abstract supplement in the International Journal of Obesity.

Please check the appropriate box if you do not wish your abstract to be published. You will be asked to provide a reason as to why you are opting out of having your abstract published.

Copyright

Unless your abstract is an encore abstract or you opt out of your abstract being published, your abstract will be included in the published UKCO abstracts in a supplement in the International Journal of Obesity. Published abstracts must contain original data that has not been published or accepted for publication in a print or online journal. By submitting your abstract, the authors confirm this in the abstract declaration.

Following publication authors may reuse their work with the sole requirements of full citation and link to the original publication online.
